

The American Research Center in Egypt
presents

Ancient Egypt Film Festival at the Bowers

Saturday, June 12, 2010 • 10 am to 4 pm • Bowers Museum • Kershaw Auditorium

Land of the Pharaohs

A 1955 Big Screen Classic in Cinemascope and Warnercolor

“The Barbarous Love That Left Egypt’s Great Pyramid as Its Wondrous Landmark” starring Joan Collins and Jack Hawkins and 10,000 extras in a $3 million extravaganza. Screenplay by Nobel Laureate William Faulkner, Harry Kurnitz, and Harold Bloom. Music by Dmitri Tiomkin.

Nubia 64

Winner of the Grand Prix,
Cannes Film Festival

This film by Robert Genot is an impressive documentary account about the international effort to rescue the grand temple of Abu Simbel and other sites from the rising waters of the Aswan Dam.

The Adventure in the Egyptian Tomb

Intriguing 1993 Hercule Poirot mystery by Agatha Christie weaves an elegant, tightly told tale in the “Egyptian Mummy Murder” genre.

In its American debut and only U.S. venue in 2010...

Fountains of the Sun

A geographic and cultural odyssey follows the mighty Nile River from its source deep in Africa through its final inundation before its containment by the Aswan High Dam. See scenes of Egypt and its monuments flooded by the last, traditional inundation. Follow the Nile in its journey from the heart of Africa and the Ethiopian highlands to the fertile plains of Egypt and into the Mediterranean. Learn how climate and monsoons affected the harvest and Egyptian civilization for thousands of years.

Tickets at the door, first come, first served!

Public: $10 donation
ARCE/Bowers Members: $7 donation
Preferred Seats: $5 extra

Introductions and commentary on the four films begin at 10 am and are provided by speakers from the American Research Center in Egypt, Orange County Chapter.

“Land of the Pharaohs” . . . 10:15 am - 12 pm
“Nubia 64” 12 - 12:40 pm
Lunch Break

“The Adventure in the Egyptian Tomb” 1:30 - 2:20 pm
“Fountains of the Sun” 2:30 - 3:45 pm

Why not prebook a picnic lunch from Tangata, the Bowers’ great restaurant, to enjoy during the break? Or make a reservation for lunch in their dining room or patio? Call 714-550-0906.

Make a day of it by visiting the Bowers gift shop and gardens. Museum admission available for a separate fee.